Charles,

Actually he only said he had a written agreement with you. He did not go into specifics about this agreement. At the time I asked for a copy of this agreement and to sit down with him and get his side of this issue. He agreed but requested to bring his mortgage broker Bill Black. I told him that was fine, and to either call or e-mail me with a meeting date and time. I did not hear back from him. I called and left Eric a message but did not hear back from him. I then sent an e-mail to Bill Black requesting an interview in reference to his knowledge and/or involvement in this. Black e-mailed me back with his phone number and a couple of statements. I called and left him a message but it was after hours so I have not heard back.

Interestingly, Eric called me week asking if this was a criminal investigation. I told him it was. He responded that he did not have to speak with me. I told him that was correct. He then asked for my badge number and supervisor's name, badge number and phone number. Well it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out he was planning on filing a formal complaint against me. Why I have no idea. Makes me wonder what he's trying to hide by not speaking with me. According to him everything he did was on the up and up and it was circumstances out of his control that led to the current situation. Therefore, one would think Eric would want to sit down with someone of authority and tell his side.

Anyway, at this point I have not heard from my bosses whether or not Eric actually filed a complaint. I have forwarded my report to the prosecutor for review. Honestly, I doubt if they will file charges.

I apologize for not being able to do more for you.
